

Beate Dölling
The Summer We All Went Overboard
 272 Pages
 ISBN 978-3-423-76132-1

War; it's been the name of the game between the "stuck-up snobs" from boarding school and the "village idiots" of the local school for as long as anyone can remember. It goes without saying that Felix and his friends aren't going to put up with sharing their state-of-the-art sports hall with those peasants! But their plans to keep them out succeed only too well, and revenge isn't long in coming. It's just too bad that Felix wakes up the night Lena from the village school sneaks into his room. Or maybe it's a lucky break, because to their astonishment they find they've got a lot in common and all this stupid fighting is actually pretty childish. Unfortunately it proves harder to convince everyone else...

- an exciting children's novel about friendship and enmity—laced with a hint of love
- a summer's tale; something we find ourselves longing to experience first-hand; a story that shows how things can get blown out of all proportion despite the best of intentions...

Beate Dölling

Beate Dölling works as a freelance journalist and author for Deutschland Radio Berlin and various print media, as well as running writing workshops. She has won numerous grants for her literary works, which have been published in anthologies, magazines and newspapers.

More titles from Beate Dölling

- Kisses Don't Need Passports, dtv Junior, Taschenbuch, ISBN 978-3-423-07612-8
- Ella Kicks Off, dtv Junior, Taschenbuch, ISBN 978-3-423-71154-8
- Dr Snore, Period Six, dtv Junior, Flexcover, ISBN 978-3-423-76075-1
- Sugared Pretzels: My holidays with Marie , dtv Junior, Hardcover, ISBN 978-3-423-76174-1
- Fatal Lies, dtv Junior, Taschenbuch, ISBN 978-3-423-78260-9