Maxi is in love. Totally crazy about the guy. And Patrick, of all people! Who thinks he's Casanova and has just stood her up for the third time in a row! But, this time, he's going to be sorry. Really, really sorry. She's going to make damn sure of that with the help of her best friend Mo. So while Mo, dressed to kill, is busy luring Mr Cool into a trap, Maxi dismantles his beloved bike and then uses the parts to decorate several nearby trees ...

Of course the story spreads round the school in no time. Such a talent for revenge is very useful – so many people think. But will that leave Mo with enough time to get Frederick to notice her? And will Maxi be able to admit to herself that Oskar is actually really rather cute?
